Subject: LadyBug Technologies Critical Supplier Status

Valued Supplier,

LadyBug Technologies LLC is a Critical Supplier of goods and services to the national security industrial base. The unprecedented COVID-19 crisis requires LadyBug to remain open and continue to supply needed products and services. LadyBug has implemented social distancing and shelter-in-place policies consistent with guidance and orders issued by federal, state and local governments.

Consistent with the President's guidelines: "if you work in a critical industry, as defined by the Department of Homeland Security, you have a special responsibility to maintain your normal work schedule." Our customers have referenced Title I of the Defense Production Act of 1950, which was reauthorized on March 18, 2020 by the President. In addition, our customers have provided me with the attached memo from Ellen Lord, Undersecretary of Defense for Acquisition and Sustainment, concerning the status and performance of Department of Defense (DOD) contracts and subcontracts. This explains that the Essential Critical Infrastructure Workforce includes workers who support the essential services required to meet national security commitments to the federal government and U.S. Military. These individuals, include but are not limited to, aerospace; mechanical and software engineers, manufacturing/production workers; IT support; security staff; security personnel; intelligence support, aircraft and weapon system mechanics and maintainers. Personnel working for companies, and their subcontractors, who perform under contract to the DOD providing materials and services to the DOD, are expected to maintain their normal work schedules.

If orders issued by your local or state government prevent supplying LadyBug with Critical material, we recommend you contact your local authorities for further clarification. Specifically, how should you proceed if supplied material impacts contracts and subcontracts critical to DOD and other Federal agencies.

Regards,

Richard R Hawkins, President
